

"The troops," we understand, have arrived in the Cherokee Nation, and the gold-diggers been put to flight, without any "organized opposition." We do not know the fact, but hope the Indians have been stopped from digging as well as the whites. Until the question of ownership is fully settled, let no one, Indian or white man, be permitted to dig in the territory.

