

"W. Schley, Esq. has been elected member of Congress from Georgia, in place of Lumpkin, the Governor, having 334 votes against 215, given to Judge Clayton."

This, gentle reader, is an en dit from the Charleston Gazette, and serves to show how well acquainted our neighbors of Carolina are with the affairs of Georgia. For the special benefit of the worthy editor of that paper, we can inform him that in the election of which he speaks, we presume there were about twenty-five thousand votes cast, instead of five-hundred and forty-nine, of which we expect Judge Clayton to get nearly a thousand majority.

We hardly know what to do with these Carolinians — it is impossible to give them a good understanding of our affairs, or make them appreciate our value or intelligence. Both parties are alike intractable. The above slam at our population is from a "Union" press — but not long since we had a homily preached us from the other side. The Edgefield Carolinian, a thorough-going nullification print, said of our State, that we had "not received a regular classical education" on the subject of nullification. That paper also complained us to "be a people, unlettered backward and ignorant, who know nothing of the principles of the Constitution." This learned Carolina, acting upon "principle," is set
