

By Hampton B. Watts—The Hon. A. S. Clayton—May the people of Georgia not forget his worth at the next October election.

By the Reader of the day—Our Country—Once the home of liberty and justice, now the theatre of intestine broils; soon may the patriotism of the American people bind up the wounds which the North has inflicted on the South, and prove to a jealous world that our republic is safe.

By the Orator of the day—"A woman's tongue, a small thing, seldom seen but often heard to the terror and confusion of many."

By Robert Davenport—The old Hickory of Tennessee—Tough is its bark, firm its body, and good its fruit, may it out last the Clay of Kentucky, and when by time it shall have mouldered into dust, may the shirts of Webster and Calhoun be washed in the ley that is drained from its ashes, that they may have clean shirts to wear when they go to Congress.

By Marcellus L. Branch—Charles Carroll of Carrollton—The only surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, may he live many years to witness the celebration of this glorious anniversary.

By Woodson Coker—The birth day of the father of our country—May it be a day long to be remembered by every American patriot.

By Thomas C. Clark—May every succeeding century maintain the principles of the glorious revolution, enjoy them and transmit them to future ages unimpaired and improved.

By Thomas B. Davenport—The Tutor and Tutoress of our village—May their names ever be remembered with an endearing recollection by the pupils they have instructed; may their lives be as prosperous as they have been useful, and their memory die not with their bodies.

By Dr. Willis B. Harvey—The Reader of the day—To know him is to esteem him.

By A. H. Scott, Esq.—Andrew Jackson—The righteous shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands shall grow stronger and stronger.

By Dr. Wm. P. Graham—The orator of the day.

By T. B. Rees, Esq.—Doctor Henry Braham of Putnam county—An honest man, a firm politician, and deserves the support of the Troup party.

By Francis A. Clark—Andrew Jackson—May he go to the gallows—to see his enemies hung.

By John Totty—George M. Troup—The Hercules of Georgia, when the "argument is exhausted he will stand to his arms."

By a Lady—The State of Georgia—May she maintain her rights as long as earth has graves and heaven has lights.

By James C. Anderson—Judge Clayton our Representative in Congress—For the brilliant display of his talents against re-chartering the U. S. Bank, may he never lack for money or friends.

By James M. Strong—The Hon. A. S. Clayton—May his head never be disturbed by a northern Q.
