

Jacobinical Associations.—True to the orders issued from head quarters in December last, the agents of Cooper, Calhoun, & Co. in various parts of the State, are forming "Clubs" for the purpose of duping the good people of Georgia into their revolutionary doctrines, under the specious garb of "State Rights Associations." We warn the people against their mischievous designs. The pure, unsophisticated doctrines of State Rights, need no such extra republican combinations for their successful propagation: indeed the friends of no principles, whether religious, moral or political, that have truth and virtue on their side, would stoop for a moment to such means for their support and protection. The glorious revolution which established the liberties of this great country, was not brought about by the agency of Jacobinical clubs and cabals—the constitution which secures those liberties to the people was not established under their influence; nor was the civil revolution, which placed Mr. Jefferson in the Presidential chair in 1801, and which hurled the monarchists from power, effected through their instrumentality. Were they resorted to in France when the revolution of "the 3 days" placed the citizen King on the throne, and sent the doating old Charles a wandering "by-word and reproach" among the nations? Have they ever disgraced the noble minded Briton in his straight forward, undeviating course toward the attainment of civil and religious liberty? No—but we will inform our readers when they have been resorted to, by whom, and of their unvarying consequences when successfully practised against the people. They were first successfully put in requisition in France—not to establish the liberties of the French on the ruins of prostrated tyranny—but for the purpose of bathing the thirsty souls of a few petty tyrants—Marat, Robespierre, Danton and others—in oceans of the purest blood of that devoted people.—And they have been resorted to under the guidance of one, in a sister State, whose taste for human gore was acquired under the tutorage and in the school of those very Tyrants of the French Revolution! And if they have failed to satisfy his thirst for blood, they have at least delighted his ears with the cries of Carolinians in chains. They produced in France—not liberty, but tyrants bathed in blood. They have produced in South Carolina—not blood as yet, but pains and penalties, test oaths and despotism!

The people of South Carolina were lulled into security by the cry of peaceful and constitutional nullification—they were deceived by designing demagogues out of their signatures, and when they woke up to the truth, it was too late for them to retract! People of Georgia, will you allow yourselves to be deceived in the same way, by their agents and emissaries in this State? The bait is very tempting it is true—we all love "State Rights—but beware! the hook nullification is concealed beneath it! Is it not enough for freemen that we can enjoy liberty of conscience, and believe in what political doctrines we please, without submitting to a set of Demagogues, who call upon us to sign our names and pledge our purses to support any and every dogma which they may choose to dictate? Can we not be State Rights men without stooping so low as to satisfy our masters, that we are not only such, but are willing to yield to them our signatures, and to pledge to them our purses for the support of any constructions which they may choose to give to that doctrine? We hope better things. The free born sons of Georgia can never become so debased. Let them look to South Carolina, and beware of the principles and practices which have brought her to her present wretched condition.
